The Circulation of The Bulletin.

The Bulletin has the largest circulation of any paper in Eastern Connecticut, and from three to four times larger than that of any in Norwich. It is delivered to over 3,000 of the 4,500 houses in Norwich, and read by nearly three per cent. of the people in Windham, in Putnam and Danbury to over 1,000, and in all of these places it is considered the local daily.

Eastern Connecticut has forty-five towns, one hundred and sixty-five postoffice districts, and forty-one rural free delivery routes. The Bulletin is sold in every town and in all of the R. F. D. routes in Eastern Connecticut.

ROOM FOR ENDLESS LITIGATION.

The Bulletin notices that the pollution of the water system of Rochester, N. Y., as reported in a recent issue of the Municipal Journal, is being made a cause for a damage suit by a "germed" citizen. The dispatch from Rochester says: "Alleging negligence on the part of the city through its efforts and employees in allowing or causing water from the Genesee river to flow into the Hemlock water mains at Brown street bridge, thereby introducing into the Hemlock water system germs of typhoid fever and other disease germs; Harry Randall, of 19 Clarence park, has filed a claim with Corporation Counsel W. W. Webb for $5,000."

In his complaint, Mr. Randall says: "The pollution of the Hemlock water system, commenced, as I am informed and believe, in or about the month of June, 1909, and has continued until recently."

"He says he was taken sick with typhoid fever on September 26, 1909, and was dangerously ill for 12 weeks, that he became inoculated with the fever germs at his place of business, 242 Allen street, which is in the district affected by the contaminated water the condition of which was discovered by Health Officer Doler on October 2, and continues."

"I have drunk the Hemlock water up to the time the health authorities gave warning of the danger, and my health has been affected during this whole period thereof, and in two weeks I suffered a recurrent attack of typhoid which my physician had succeeded in breaking up. My damages consist of injuries to my health, suffering from sickness, expense of doctor and loss of wages as a result of sickness."

Norwich should not be made liable to suits of this kind.

HEARING ON CITY CHARTER.

The city meeting to be held this evening for further consideration of the proposed charter should call a large attendance of citizens, as it is a matter in which every taxpayer and voter is interested.

The point of interest to every taxpayer is the proposed additional salary schedule which provides for a permanent increase of the current expenses, and we are all aware that there is need of a wise economy in the administration of city affairs at present, if there ever was in the history of Norwich.

The Bulletin would state distinctly that it does not believe in any economy which keeps the streets growing worse from year to year, or that keeps the water system under-piped and inefficient on the hills, or that keeps the fire apparatus below par. There are a few things which should be kept first class first from necessity and second from civic pride.

There is no denying the allegation that most of these charters designed for a concentration of power contain a safe referendum—a provision for referring matters back to the people which is made inoperative because of the high percentage of voters who are required on petition to carry it into effect. It is up to the voters to make this privilege of petition effective by making the percentage of voters signing petitions low enough so that they may be procured and the provision be made something besides a false pretence.

It is up to all intelligent citizens to attend and to act with judgment with reference to their personal interest in these matters.

The woman who asked for a divorce from her 25-year-old husband because he was drinking two quarts of whiskey a day and she was afraid the child would grow on him, had cause for alarm.

A Norwich man seen speaking of the suburbs now with a jug in his hand is not looking for a blind man but for pure water to take to his family.

Calder Wilhelm is in no danger of being duped when he says that the action concerning the most alcoholic drinks is not the one that in the end will win.

The whole state of Ohio has as many inhabitants as the city of New York. Few states in the union have.

THE IMPORTANT ISSUE.

The important issue in every large and growing community is the question of procuring an adequate supply of pure water.

Meriden is on the anxious seat and apparently moving slow, for this is what The Journal of that city has to say: "Water rights in Connecticut, are going to be mighty valuable some day and Meriden should not be the last to secure its share of them to be protected against inroads of other cities."

"Let's get this broad brook supply, divert it to the needs of the city and make ourselves safe."

In contrast to this, The Bulletin notices that Bridgeport, which is supplied by a private company, has plenty of water and more in sight. The Bridgeport Standard says:

"During the entire season Bridgeport has been amply supplied, there has been no shortage at any time and today at the end of a dry season the Hydraulic company has enough water to run the city for three months at the average consumption of 18,000,000 gallons per day."

"The proposed additional watershed of the company will cover an area of over 50 square miles and from that area will be drawn in the future an aggregate of 8,700,000,000 gallons, the capacity of the projected storage reservoirs. This will more than double the present storage capacity, setting in 4,300,000,000 gallons, and will be ample for any future growth of the city in the next thirty years."

Bridgeport is to be congratulated. There is no one of the pure, drinkable water accessible to Norwich, to some of which Norwich could be piped up in sixty days; but instead, as being more accessible and cheaper, she has been given notice, if worst comes to worst, the polluted water of the Shetucket river will be pumped into the water mains. This should be forbidden by the city for it means sickness and suffering and death. In addition to the pollution of our water system.

ONE VOTE COUNTS.

A single vote in a total of over 41,000 elected Charles Bennett Smith, democrat, in the Thirty-sixth congressional district of New York on November 22. This vote, which was cast to change the mind of the man who says his vote will make no difference anyway.

It is a New England tradition that one vote in a country town, some where in New England elected a member of the legislature, whose vote decided a contest on United States senator, who cast the deciding vote in a political contest which was declared a history is always liable to repeat itself.—Waterbury Republican.

That was before the day of election contests. In this day of graft, to say nothing of graft, such a thing could not happen, for it is supposed that all men make mistakes, and when it is only a question of one vote a defeated politician will put up $500 to see if he cannot prove that one vote belongs to him. In the Third congressional district the defeated republican is banking on getting a democratic congress to seat him in the place of the republican who has been officially declared to have been elected.

AN OCEAN PATROL.

The policing of the Atlantic seaboard from the British provinces to Cape Carraeval, Fla., by ten revenue cutters in the winter months will mean no saving vessels from going ashore and the loss of life and property.

President Taft has ordered this service to start next year, and from December 1 to May 1 each season these staunch little vessels will patrol the Atlantic seaboard. The valuable service to be rendered cannot be overestimated.

The wireless instruments aboard the cutters will be kept working 24 hours every day and constant lookout will be maintained for vessels needing assistance.

While the toll of the Atlantic has been decreased greatly by reason of the life saving service along the coast, the lighthouses, submarine bell, wireless and improved steamships, it is possible to further decrease it by this additional sea-service. There is no doubt this fleet of revenue cutters will make a good report of themselves the very first year.

The students of Columbia who make their own way earned a total of $168,000 last year. They deserve to win.

Uncle Sam is said to have seven millions more of turkeys, which will be ready for the market for Christmas.

Happy thought for today: Buying a man is simple enough, but proof that the goods were delivered is another thing.

The football season is a memory, but the pains of the game may not all be over when the next season opens.

The population of Salt Lake City has doubled in the past ten years. No wonder the Mormons are heading for Mexico.

John Bigelow at 93 is one of the oldest and most active men in New York. He has not time to notice the years behind him.

Governor Dix gives notice that the office of governor is enough for him, hence he has no idea of trying to be the legislature, too.

Japan's latest order for a 25,000-ton battleship shows that she does not propose to be outdone by England or any other country.

The stock in those Mexican rubber plantations which was so arousing a little while ago cannot even be talked up now, it is so down.

There is no one more interested in horse shows than the dressmakers, and they are likely to be the last to think that they do not pay.

Salmon wiggle is a popular Baltimore dish, and the Toledo Blade thinks the name originated from the effect the fish has on the digestion.

The shortage in the grain and current crops is stated to be 100,000 tons, and this may be taken as an indication that sustenance will be higher.

If Colonel Bryan only realized how glad it would make the democratic party if he would declare himself a republican, maybe he would do it.

"Will you love me when I'm old?" "Why, precious darling, well be divorced long before that."—Brooklyn Life.

FRILLS OF THE SEASON.

A touch of purple or scarlet in nearly any color is a fad of the season.

Some of the new traveling coats have pockets almost as big as handbags.

Some of the new evening gowns show whole panels of bead embroidery.

Evening shoes are to be lower in the heels and richer in fabrics than for many seasons.

All street skirts are short—about four inches from the ground.

Wool embroidery is the latest trimming for afternoon gowns.

The high arch is the distinguishing feature of the most fashionable shoes.

Pringe wrought of fur and heavy cord is a finish for fur wraps, muffs and neckpieces.

Corded silks, moires and satins are the leaders among the materials for tailored costumes.

1910-1911 Shoe Styles.

Patent leather much used with dull calf or dull kid.

Black suede remains in high favor. Black velvet of moderate height, there is nothing extreme in sight. The Cap, military, "rooster," Spanish, plain French and flaring concave top-lift French shoes are used in the order mentioned.

Shoes vary considerably from a French suggestion of one limit to resemblance to the "knob" toes current in men's shoes at the other.

Two or three inches of heel will be used, some of these being made on pump lasts, forming what is practically a button pump.

Black velvet will be strong in pumps for all occasions, also in combination with patent leather in oxfords.

Black satin will be much used in afternoon dress pumps and boots, as well as in evening slippers.

Imitation Seal.

There are many luxurious evening cloaks made up of fine imitation seal instead of the excessively costly real seal, as the most exclusive makers do not hesitate to develop models in the imitation fur. A lovely model of imitation seal has a huge collar and cuffs of white fox. Another has a deep shawl collar and cuffs of chinchilla.

Two Classes of Hats.

Dressy hats have divided themselves into two classes. There are some dresses that are growing in circumference and height, while smaller models are decreasing in size, fitting the head more snug and partaking of such persuasive charm that one can only think of a delectable bonbon of exquisite color and design.

Women who can afford two dressy hats will undoubtedly have one of each class. There are some costumes which demand small, quaint shapes; others require large, picturesque hats, laden with plumes or rather bird plumes, for many expensive hats are massed with egret.

Reign of Velvet.

The favor for velvets and furs gives a touch of Russian magnificence to this winter's evening dress, and where fur-trimmed velvets are not used one finds chignon embroidered with beads or weighted with gold and silver embroidery in a very orgy of oriental extravagance. Velvet gowns, however, are the demier cry in Paris just now, and the new velvets are so beautifully fine and soft and so thin and light in texture that these costumes are really no warmer than satin ones would be.

The Artistic Touch.

Just a scrap of beautiful Oriental embroidery will give the artistic effect which is real in the making of a whole costume, but it takes an artist to know just how to use that scrap of color to advantage. If put on with the required deftness the gold or silver will have a telling effect. Oriental embroidery is now used on the backs of waists quite as much as on the fronts.

Hints That Help the Housewife.

To remove coffee or tea stains stir the yolk of an egg into a cup of tepid water, add a few drops of glycerin and rub well into the spot.

To take out obstinate grease spots, take one-half ounce of castile soap and shave or grate it into one quart of warm water, let cool and then mix with it one-half ounce of alcohol, one-half ounce of glycerin and one-half ounce of water. Apply with a sponge or flannel rag to the spots.

To take ink stains out of linen, moisten with lemon juice, sprinkle well with salt and lay in the sun. Milk will remove ink from colored muslins.

To remove mildew, soak the article in sour milk and salt, then lay it in the sun.

To take out paint spots, saturate the spots two or three times with equal parts of ammonia and turpentine, then wash out in soap suds.

To remove iron rust stains, dip the spots in a solution of tartaric or citric acid; or wet the spots with lemon juice and rub off with a white soap, then expose to the sun.

To remove tea stains, soak in milk for a few minutes, then wash out in soap suds.

Hot Compresses.

If one needs cloths for hot applications, try heating them in a steamer. This will save the discomfort of wringing the cloths out of boiling water.

Launder Jabots.

Baste closely all the little plaits; wash in suds made of white soap and press on wrong side, picking out edges of lace and curl any strands that fall apart from the others with a silver knife.

Filling for Layer Cake.

A delicious and unusual filling for a layer cake is made by following this recipe, used by a Newark woman: Take a quarter of a pound of sweet butter, or if salted butter is used, first wash out all the salt. Cream it with two cups of confectioner's sugar, then add slowly a tablespoonful of cocoa dissolved in three tablespoons of milk. Next stir in half a tablespoonful of vanilla, and beat all well. Spread fairly thick on the cake.

Banana Sandwiches.

Banana, pulped and seasoned with lemon, is a tasty filling for a brown bread sandwich. For the luncheon or the 5 o'clock tea they will be found delicious.

A Hint to the Cook.

When food has accidentally been made too salty in cooking, the effect may be counteracted by adding a tablespoonful of vinegar and one of sugar.

To Guard Against Moths.

Shavings of cedar wood or camphor, enclosed in muslin bags, and the latter distributed among the clothes, will prevent moths.

Pretty Jackets to Be Worn for Breakfast.

While the breakfast jacket habit is not one which any young girl should adopt, there are occasions when something not quite so formal as a shirt-waist or a one-piece frock can be slipped on and worn during the first meal of the day.

The chief objection to the average breakfast jacket is its neaplike appearance, but the new designs are so trim and neatly fitted that they are not open to that criticism.

Almost any sort of soft silk, substantial satin or fine cloth may be used for the latest designs in breakfast jackets, which are made on precisely the same lines as the popular kimono blouses save that they are straight or diagonally in front and are cut sufficiently long to cover the hips, the fullness of the waist line being held in with a buckle equipped with silk girdle.

One exceedingly pretty design, which a girl of medium size can cut from a yard and a half of double width material, has a diagonal front which

Before pressing on the patterns the spaces for the names should be marked off. For this an ordinary visiting card may be used as a model, a line being drawn around it. The card spaces should be arranged artistically.

To clean white feathers.

To clean white ostrich plumes move them about in a bath of pure white soap with a little ammonia in it, using about a quart of water if the feathers are large. Then press them from stem to tip between the thumb and finger and do the same in the same amount of clear, hot water. Repeat in

ONE DOSE REGULATES THE STOMACH

Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gas, Heartburn or a Stomach-Headache Simply Vanish—A Little Diapiesin Makes Your Stomach Feel Fine in Five Minutes.

The question as to how long you are going to continue a sufferer from indigestion, dyspepsia or out-of-order stomach is merely a matter of how soon you begin taking some Diapiesin.

If your stomach is lacking in digestive power, why not help the stomach to do its work, not with drastic drugs, but a re-inforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the stomach.

People with weak stomachs should take a little Diapiesin occasionally, and there will be no more indigestion, no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, no heartburn, sour risings, gas on stomach or belching of undigested food. Headaches, Dizziness or Sick Stomach, and besides, what you eat will not ferment and poison your stomach with nauseous odors. All these symptoms resulting from a sour out-of-order stomach and dyspepsia are generally relieved five minutes after taking a little Diapiesin.

Go to your drugist and get a 5-cent case of Pape's Diapiesin now, and you will always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good, because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be anymore bad nights and miserable days for you. They freshen you and make you feel like life is worth living.

forms a V neck and is worn with a white blouse.

The model is pretty when made up in Persian patterned, striped or figured silk, bound and belted with plain colored satin, and it is charming in a plain fabric outlined with white or eyed Russian lace or one of the metal threaded oriental bandings which have descended to the bargain counters from their erstwhile proud estate in glass show cases.

A Housewife's Secret.

Never put white clothing away in a closet drawer, for it will very soon become yellow.

Place it carefully away wrapped in blue paper or even a dark blue cloth and it will come out looking as white as ever it was, no matter how long it lies.

To whiten clothes that have become yellow, steep them overnight in lukewarm water and in the morning wash them in clean soap suds; then put them in the boiler with some bits of soap and a teaspoonful of powdered borax. Boil for twenty minutes, rinse immediately and let them lie another night in clean cold water to which a little borax has been added.

Stuffing for Fish.

Two cups soft bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon poultry seasoning, salt and pepper; 1 small onion; 1-4 cup melted butter, hot water; mix first four ingredients in order given; chop the onion rather finely and fry for a second in the melted butter; add to the rest, add a sufficient amount of hot water to make a dressing of right consistency.

This stuffing is particularly good when used with halibut. Select two slices of uniform size and place the dressing between them. Bake in a moderate oven about three-quarters of an hour, basting occasionally with melted butter, and turning the pan often so that the fish may be equally browned.

cold water slightly blueed. Hang them to dry in a draft and shake them occasionally. Before they are entirely dry shake them gently before the fire. Comb carefully and curl any strands that fall apart from the others with a silver knife.
